THE THEATRE-MISS MARY ANDERSON .-Ingomar the Barbarian, a play once very preciative, but not very large. The bad weather doubtless kept some people away. The author of the piece, it is presumed, intended by it to show how love can tame the rudest savage. At times the action and dialogue between the two chief characters rises to something like sublimity; yery often it touches upon the ridiculous. Ingomar, as the slave to love, is not a heroic picture. But that sort of thing is a delightful spectacle to the ladies, and they were among the most pleased of Parthenia's auditors last night. Miss Anderson acted well her part, and was arch and coy as ever maiden was in winning man's heart. Joseph Carter, with whom she had lived for many years as wife, was left only a life-interest in the premises occupied by them, on the northwest corner of Belle Isle avenue (Twelfth street) and McDonough street.

Fannie Anderson's heirs contend that there was never any legal marriage between the parties, and that the deceased had a perfect right to make a will. That most of the property was inherited, and should come back to the family. Against this latter plea Carteralleges that most of the property was accumulated through their joint efforts, and that he is entitled to his share of it. The case excites great interest in Manchester, especially among the colored people, as the couple were widely known and highly respected in this community. Joseph Carter is a leading churchman, and was at one time very prominent in Re-ners, and good character have been always the leading attributes of the Anderson family in this section.

The Cedar-Works Company .- A large force was engaged yesterday in cleaning up around the cedar-works. It is expected that the contract for all of the work will be given out in a few days, and the factory pushed forward to a speedy completion. The action of the Council in granting the terms asked for by the company is generally Stiles and Goodyear in their comicalities, approved, certainly by the working class of Wilby and Pearl in their songs and dances, the community.

> Master Bingham's Entertainment for the Poor of Manchester .- Master Ralph Bingham, the boy orator, delighted another fair audience at the Baptist church last night. Master Ralph is but seven years of age, but has all the seductive ways of an experienced speaker. He seems a natural orator and elocutionist, and to those gifts adds that of a wonderfully retentive memory. His manner is not that of a parrot-like imitation. His intonations and gestures are his own, and he seems to feel what he speaks. The church would have been filled but for the rain last night. The audience, however, were enraptured with the exhibition. Master Ralph may always be sure of a warm welcome when he visits Manchester. A handsome sum was realized for the benefit of our deserving poor. The pastor and officers of the Baptist church, and Messrs. James A. Lips combe, Sidney W. Blankinship, and William B. McCrary deserve thanks for their efforts in behalf of the entertainment. Miss Jennie Webster presided at the organ and added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

The Grand Jury.—The grand jury meets this morning at 10 o'clock. Their action is looked forward to with great interest. It is supposed that the indictments asked for by the grand jury Tuesday night will be ready for their consideration.

Pierce was a candidate for State senator his political oppo nents published a pretended analysis of his popular edge that he lived with her for thirty-two medicines, hoping thereby to prejudice the people against him. His election by an overwhelming mafority severely rebuked his traducers, who sought to impeach his business integrity. No notice would have been taken of these campaign lies were it not that some of his enemies (and every successful business-man has his full quota of envious rivals) are republishing these bogus analyses. Numerous and most absurd formulas have been published, purporting to come from high authority; and it is a significant fact that no two have been at all alike-conclusively proving the dishonesty of their authors. The following is from the Buffalo Commercial of

CALL AT 1300 MAIN STREET

October 23, 1877: "Hardly a dozen years ago he (Dr. Pierce) came here, a young and unknown man, almost friendless, with no capital except his own manhood, which, however, included plenty of brains and pluck, indomitable perseverance, and inborn uprightness. Capital enough for any young man, in this progresas well. He had all these great natural advantages and one thing more, an excellent education. He had studied medicine and been regularly licensed to practice as a physician. But he was still a student fond of investigation and experiment. He discovered, or invented, important remedial agencies or compounds. Not choosing to wait wearily for the sick and suffering to find out (without anybody to tell them) that he could do them good, he advertised his medicines and invited the whole profession, of every school, to examine and pronounce judgment upon his formulas. He advertised liberally, profusely, but with extraordinary shrewdness, and with a method which is in itself a lesson to all who seek business by that perfectly legitimate means. His success has been something marvellous-so great indeed that it must be due to intrinsic merit in the articles he sells more even than to his unparalleled skill demand for Dr. Pierce's medicines. He said they were in fact genuine medicines,-such compounds as every good physician would prescribe for the diseases which they were advertised to cure. Of course they cost less than any druggist would charge for the same article supplied on a physician's prescription, and besides there was the doctor's fee saved. Moreover, buying the drugs in such enornous quantities, having perfect apparatus for purifying and compounding the mixture, he could not only get better articles in the first place, but present the medicine in better form and cheaper than the ame mixture could possibly be obtained from any other source.

"It may be thought that all this, having reference Dr. Pierce's private business, has no point whatver when considered in connection with the proper ualifications of a candidate for the Senate. Perhaps But it is the fashion now, and will be for a fortnight more, with sundry journals, to make sneering allusions to this very matter. After that brief period they will be quite ready to go on doing his work as before, and, as always before, to speak of him as a great public benefactor."
